The Architecture MasterPrize

Celebrating inspirational global architecture and design

Since its launch in 2016, the Architecture MasterPrize has been passionately committed to its three-fold core mission:

- To advance the appreciation of quality architectural design around the world,
- To celebrate the greatest achievements in architecture, interior design and landscape design,
- To showcase the world-class talent and visionaries in these fields.

In pursuit of this vision, we have discovered some of the most unique, ground-breaking, visually stunning architectural and interior designs from around the world, and the visionary designers and design teams that have brought to life, developing them from an idea to reality.

In its 2019 edition, the most successful and competitive year to date, AMP received over a thousand entries from around the world from professional, emerging and student designers. Our stellar international Jury of industry experts, architects, designers, curators, editors and academics, had the challenging task of selecting the most outstanding of these projects to be awarded the coveted title of “Firm of the Year”, “Design of the Year”, and “New Discovery of the Year” in the categories of architecture, interior design and landscape and urban design.

This year AMP also launched a brand new category—the Architectural Product of the Year Award—to recognize and celebrate the ingenuity and innovation of designers who create the products and materials that make great architectural achievements possible.

At AMP, we understand that architectural design is crucially important because of how it directly relates to our daily lives, acting as a backdrop to every stage of our human experience. From our work, to our hobbies, to our social lives, we encounter architecture everywhere, and those who design it are the trailblazers who continually challenge the limitations of space and gravity. Johann Wolfgang Von Goethe called architecture “frozen music”, which makes the architects and designers behind it true virtuosos.

We are very proud to present the 2019 winners of this globally recognized award and congratulate each of them on their great success. Future generations will take inspiration from their achievements, as we have done.
